Notes

*Conjunction “o” (English: or) should always be attached to the second comparing word in the sentence. Example: “lok'tar ogar” (English: (honourable) victory or death)

*Adjectives, ownership or other forms of belongings can be formed and connected to a noun by a single apostrophe. Example: “kazil'kron” (English: city guardian)

*Nouns can be turned plural by using the suffix -an. Example: “varan” (English: villages)

*Verbs without any pronoun assigned to them are by default in I-form. The specific I-form can still be used for exclamation purposes. Example: “dabu / on-dabu” (English: I obey)

*Pronouns and verbs seem to be linked together by a dash, as seen above.

*Genders seem to play a part in names or roles only. Females can be identified by the suffix -a. Example: “mok” (English: son) “moka” (English: daughter)
